"A searing memoir that peels back the layers of systemic injustice. Unapologetically raw, deeply human, and impossible to forget."

— Dr. Monica Banks, Professor of African American Studies

"Raising Quamina should be taught in every high school in America. It is both historical record and living testimony."

— Rev. James Carter, Civil Rights Leader

"A powerful voice in the tradition of Baldwin and Bevel. Duane Quamina has gifted us a modern classic."

— Amira Johnson, Author of Truth in Chains
